RESIDENT STATUS OF UW SYSTEM STUDENTS

Undergraduate students with Wisconsin resident status made up 79 percent of the undergraduate enrollment in the UW System in fall 2014 (Table 7). Another 12 percent were classified as nonresident students, and the remaining 9 percent attended a UW System institution under the Minnesota or Michigan Reciprocity programs. Since 2005, the percentage of resident students has declined while the percentage of nonresident undergraduates has increased from 7 percent to 12 percent, due in part to tuition programs targeting out-of-state students. These include the Tri-State Initiative (1,606 headcount enrollment in fall 2014), the Midwest Student Exchange (2,653), and the Return to Wisconsin (96) programs.

In fall 2014, Wisconsin resident undergraduate enrollment ranged from a low of 46 percent at UW-River Falls to a high of 95 percent at UW-Oshkosh and UW Colleges. Nonresident enrollment ranged from 4 percent at UW Colleges to a high of 27 percent at UW-Madison. Minnesota reciprocity students make up a large proportion of the enrollment at UW institutions near the Minnesota border. The highest level of reciprocity enrollment is found at UW-River Falls, where Minnesota reciprocity students comprised 47 percent of total undergraduate enrollment. Michigan reciprocity is used by a small group of students attending UW-Marinette.

Graduate and professional headcount enrollment by resident status is shown in Table 8. Wisconsin resident graduate and professional students comprised 54 percent of total graduate and professional student enrollment in the UW System institutions in fall 2014. Another 43 percent were classified as nonresident students, and 3 percent were Minnesota reciprocity students. Resident graduate and professional enrollment has declined 9 percentage points since fall 2007, while nonresident graduate and professional enrollment has grown 9 percentage points in the same time period.

In fall 2014, Wisconsin resident graduate and professional enrollment ranged from 39 percent at UW-Madison to 93 percent at UW-Oshkosh. At UW-Superior, reciprocity students made up 46 percent of the graduate enrollment.

FULL-TIME/PART-TIME STATUS OF UW SYSTEM UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS

Part-time students made up 18 percent of the undergraduate enrollment in the UW System in fall 2014 (Table 9). The percentage of part-time undergraduate students has been relatively stable at 15 to 18 percent since 2005. In fall 2014, part-time undergraduate student enrollment ranged from a low of 6 percent at UW-La Crosse to a high of 48 percent at UW Colleges.
