

April Strom is a member of the U.S. National Commission on Mathematics and the incoming Vice President of the Mathematical Association of America (MAA). She serves as Southwest Vice President for the American Mathematical Association of Two-Year Colleges (AMATYC). Now Mathematics Faculty at Chandler-Gilbert Community College, she has taught mathematics at the community college level for more than 20 years. She has served as PI and Co-PI on various NSF-funded projects focused on both research in mathematics education and professional development of K-14 instructors. She co-lead the writing of the Classroom Practices chapter of the MAA Instructional Practices Guide and served on the steering committee for the AMATYC IMPACT guide. She received her Ph.D. in Curriculum & Instruction (emphasis in Mathematics Education) from Arizona State University, and she holds M.A. and B.A. degrees in Mathematics from Texas Tech University.