2. Report of the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs.

   Senior Vice President Ward reported UW-Milwaukee’s two-year old Student Technology Services (STS) program is now included on Steve Gilbert’s listserv, which is sponsored by the American Association for Higher Education. This list has several thousand subscribers and inclusion on it thus gives the program excellent national exposure.

   Stating that he has appreciated her creativity and energy, Senior Vice President Ward thanked Vice President Marcia Bromberg for her contributions to the UW System and the Office of Academic Affairs in her three years here.

   Bruce Jones, Director of the Center for Dairy Profitability (CDP), gave an overview of the Center’s activities. He described the CDP as a multi-campus (UW-Madison, UW-Platteville, UW-River Falls), interdisciplinary Extension unit that "develops, coordinates, and delivers interdisciplinary educational programs and emphasizes integrated production, financing, and marketing management systems to foster improved dairy profitability.” Responding to Senior V.P. Ward, Professor Jones said that Management Information System software is available for a one-time initial cost and a continuing annual user fee. In response to Regent Boyle, he said the report is useful to him as an opportunity to audit the center’s activities.

   I.1.d. It was moved by Regent Boyle, seconded by Regent MacNeil, that the report on projects undertaken in the UW System during fiscal years 1997-98 and 1998-99 and supported by Industrial and Economic Development Funds be received and approved for transmittal to the Joint Committee on Finance, in accordance with s.36.25(25)(c), Wis. Committee members agreed with Regent Boyle’s suggestion to discuss credit transfer within the UW System prior to the April meeting with the WTCS board.

6. Graying of the Faculty Presentation: Fall 1999 New Faculty Profile.

The committee heard a presentation profiling 1999 new faculty hires at three UW institutions. Panelists were: Provost William Meyer, UW-Stevens Point, Provost Marie Wunsch, UW Colleges and Provost John Wiley, UW-Madison.

Provost Wunsch noted that the two-year hiring freeze had allowed the Colleges to develop a more focused recruitment plan with the goal of developing a faculty with skills and training that are different from those of the current faculty. The Colleges follow three principles in recruiting new faculty, namely, that: (1) teaching is the primary expectation; (2) the focus is on integrating the teaching/learning environment; and (3) distance learning should be made a part of the normal educational process. Provost Meyer noted that over 39 percent of UW-Stevens Point’s faculty are over the age of 55 and that the campus has averaged just over 15 retirements per year over the last five years. As competition for faculty increases over the next few years, filling vacated positions with qualified individuals will continue to be a difficult task. Provost Wiley noted that the problems are similar at all institutions and that situations vary by discipline. He stated that UW-Madison is getting many, if not most, of its top candidates.
Responding to Regent Brandes, Provost Wiley said that, across all departments, the UW-Madison faculty is almost 23% female, and that new hires will increase the percentage. In response to Regent Randall, Provost Meyer observed that UW-Madison and UW-Milwaukee both provide faculty to the comprehensive universities. Responding to Regent MacNeil, Provost Wunsch said that some 33 percent of College faculty are academic staff; Provost Meyer said UW-Stevens Point’s percentage ranges from the low to high 20s. Provost Wiley indicated that UW-Madison plans to rebuild its faculty by about 150, but has no conscious plan to change the proportion of teaching academic staff to tenure-track faculty.

There was general agreement that start-up costs for new faculty have increased significantly over the past years.
