

Inta "Maggie" Tolan is the Senior Associate Vice Provost for Student Success at Virginia Commonwealth University, where she provides leadership for academic advising, academic support programs, transfer initiatives, career services, and student success technologies. Prior to coming to VCU, her student success leadership has traversed the United States with prior work at Georgia State University, Arizona State University, the University of Vermont, Northern Arizona University, the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, and Southeast Missouri State University. Her areas of expertise include building collaboration between colleges and centralized services, integrating career and academic developmental advising, developing technologies that facilitate student success outcomes, and change management. Her degrees include a doctorate in Educational Leadership/Multicultural Counseling, a master's degree in Teaching English as a Second Language, and bachelor's degrees in French and International Marketing. She is an advocate for study abroad, having studied both in Colombia, South America and Louvain-La-Neuve, Belgium.